Citizen Deliberation | Climate Action | The EU's Green Deal

Organization of Socratic Seminars and Public Discussions

In this phase of the project, two Socratic Seminars and public discussions are organised in each partner country of the project. Our aim? To produce a collection of good practices as a result of these seminars in order to enable informed discussions and opinion exchanges between VET educators and local policymakers with the potential to affect public environmental policy.

In Greece and Cyprus the seminars we held were an absolute success with VET educators, students and other relevant stakeholders engaging in spirited discussions on the role that formal VET education should play in regards to the development of deliberation skills and how it can affect the success or failure of the Green Deal.

COMING SOON

In the month of November more Socratic seminars will be held in rest of the partner countries. Stay tuned to find out how the results of each public discussion.

What comes next?

- Creation of video testimonials by participating target groups regarding their experiences with the Socratic seminars
- Creation of 5 infographics concerning the exchanges in the partner countries, outlining key findings and experiences
- Testimonials, feedback and field-test data will be synthesized in a report that will serve as a collection of good practises

Everything will be covered in our next Newsletter in March!
